Biannual Convention Recap. —Sonja Whitten Local 4041, Vice President

Local 4041 held its biannual convention in Carson City, April 5—8, 2018. An orientation training was offered on Thursday night providing delegates an opportunity to ask questions and help familiarize themselves the parliamentary rules, also known as Robert’s Rules of Order.

Over the course of our two day convention delegates in attendance participated in trainings and worked diligently on the various resolutions submitted by Desert, Sierra Range & Washoe Chapters. Their hard work helped us start crafting our legislative agenda for the 2019 session and update our Local’s constitution. The Executive Board would like to thank each delegate for their participation and commitment to growing our Local!

Friday morning the convention was called to order by President Harry Schiffman, who introduced the first of many guest speakers to address the delegation.

Jeanine Lake, Senior Labor Representative; AFSCME Local 4041 gave a brief overview of the history of our Local (from our time as SNEA, State of Nevada Employees Association), to our decision to affiliate with AFSCME International. AFSCME Local 4041 continues our tradition of advocating for and representing State of Nevada employees.

AFSCME International Union Regional Vice President; Connie Derr, addressed the delegates and stressed the importance of organizing.

An invitation was sent to all of the candidates running to be the next

Governor of Nevada, offering them an opportunity to speak with the convention delegates. Only two gubernatorial candidates accepted our invitation. Chis Giunchigliani and Steve Sisolak both laid out their vision for the road to victory for all Nevadans and both of these candidates support collective bargaining rights for State of Nevada employees.

AFSCME Local 4041 made a dual endorsement for Governor in the primary election of Chris G. and Steve Sisolak. A complete list of endorsements can be found in this newsletter and will also be posted on our social media & website.

Coffee with Washoe Chapter - Grey Martin — Washoe Chapter, President

The Washoe Chapter of AFSCME Local 4041 held its inaugural Coffee with AFSCME in April. Events are planned monthly. These events are an opportunity for members to meet with chapter leaders at their leisure on a weekend. The chapter knows not everyone can make it to a chapter meeting or worksite event.

The chapter is buying members, and potential members, a coffee and offering the chance to discuss workplace issues, upcoming events, and anything else members want to talk about. Voter registration will be available at some events, and political candidates have been invited to speak to and answer questions from members.

Washoe Chapter members can keep an eye out for flyers at work or check our Facebook page at AFSCME Local 4041 Washoe Chapter, for updates on candidates joining us and future dates and locations. See you there!

Boyd McCamish, Area Organizing Director (AFSCME IU) and I presented a training that explains the actions State of Nevada employees need to take to secure collective bargaining rights. Each of us has an important role and our actions now will directly our ability to:

1. Organize
2. Elect a worker-friendly Governor who will sign our collective bargaining bill.
3. Negotiate our first contract.

Having the ability to negotiate our pay, health insurance benefits, pension, and working conditions IS Worth the Fight, and are very important key issues that can be addressed by gaining collective bargaining rights.

Janus v AFSCME and Local 4041 - Grey Martin, Washoe Chapter President

On February 26, the Supreme Court heard arguments in Janus v. AFSCME. The case deals with whether public employees who are non-union members can be compelled to pay fair-share fees to cover collective bargaining costs.

In states with collective bargaining agreements for public employees, workers have the option of joining their union or not, just like anywhere else. However, all of these workers must pay what's called a fair-share fee, which is usually about half the cost of union dues. The money from the fee is used to cover the costs of the collective bargaining process. Lawyers, negotiators, administrative staff, and clerical expenses are just some of the things the fair-share fee pays for.

The Supreme Court ruled this arrangement was lawful in 1977 in a decision called Abood v. Detroit Board of Education. The Court also stated in the Abood decision that fair-share fees could only be used for collective bargaining costs. Political activities could not be funded with fair-share fees. This keeps non-union employees from funding political activities they may not agree with or have not had a say in determining.

The plaintiff in the new case, Janus, contends that fair-share fees violate his First Amendment right to free speech. He contends that all union activities, even collective bargaining, are, by their nature, political. He reasons, therefore, that he shouldn't be forced to pay for political actions with which he doesn't agree—even if they benefit him.

What does this mean for AFSCME and for Nevada? It depends how the Court rules. If the Court rules in favor of Janus, as is fairly widely expected, membership in all public employee unions is expected to drop. Members may believe they no longer need to remain active if they receive the benefits of collective bargaining without paying dues, let alone a fair-share fee. This situation may lead to less worker-friendly collective bargaining agreements. There will be less money to pay for all the expenses associated with the process. Other services, like dispute resolutions, political activities, and member services will also likely be decreased or discontinued in this scenario.

Whichever way the Court rules, there will be little immediate effect for AFSCME Local 4041, simply because we don't have collective bargaining yet. However, once we attain collective bargaining rights (and we will!), it will be more important than ever to continue striving to attain our membership goals. If the Court rules against AFSCME, worker solidarity will be more important than ever to fund the bargaining process so that we can reach long-term goals. And membership will be the only way to get a seat at the bargaining table to have specific or individual concerns heard!

A ruling is expected in late spring or early summer.
